Recommendations for travellers using public transport

 Walk or cycle <small>If you are planning a short journey, consider walking or cycling instead of using public transport. This helps to avoid coming into close contact with others during your journey and helps others, who do not have any symptoms, when taking public transport.</small>	 Travel outside <small>Travel outside fresh breezes. During each hour, passengers bring fresh breezes into the vehicle. This helps to reduce the risk of contact with others on buses, trains and the ferry.</small>	 Show consideration for other passengers <small>Do not cough or sneeze in the direction of other passengers. If you need to cough or sneeze, use your elbow or a tissue. Consider if it would be possible to leave the vehicle or to avoid public transport if you are unwell.</small>	 Remember good hand hygiene <small>Cleaning your hands thoroughly with soap and water is an effective way to prevent infection. Please be aware of this when using public transport. Avoid touching surfaces in common areas such as handrails, straps, seats, tables, etc.</small>	 Do not use public transport if you are ill or suspect that you might be infected <small>If you are ill, or you suspect that you might be infected, do not use public transport.</small>
